FREE SUMMER MEALS FOR KIDS

Are you trying to stretch your food budget this summer to feed growing kids? School is out and kids are playing hard, working up appetites that can put a strain on any food budget. The Summer Food Program can help.

The Summer Food Program offers FREE MEALS to kids, ages 1 to 18. There are over 120 sites throughout Utah where free meals are served to any child who shows up for lunch. Many kids think of it as a picnic. They often live close enough to walk or bike to the Summer Food Site. You can eat with your children for about $2.50.

Free Summer Food meals (usually lunches) are offered Monday through Friday. A few sites offer breakfast and lunch. Most Summer Food sites are in schools. Some are in parks, a few more in some Boys and Girls Clubs, and other non-profit agencies.

Check with the school closest to you to see if it offers the Summer Food Program. Or, call Utahns Against Hunger at 1-800-453-3663 to find out the location, time, and starting date of the site closest to you.

The Summer Food Program was created to provide free nutritious meals to kids when school is not in session. There are no forms to fill out and identification is not required. Children just need to show up.

If you already know the Summer Food site closest to you, please tell your friends and neighbors so their kids can benefit from this great program.

If there is not a Summer Food Program site near you, call Utahns Against Hunger. They want to work with you to get one started in your area next year.
